Having a Part in God's Work

Preacher David Cher, Lord's Day, 22 October 2023

Beloved Brethren,
Greetings in the Precious Name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. God has indeed created us to be persons of different gifts, talents, and strengths (Romans 12:3-8; 1 Cor. 12:1-11; Eph. 4:4-16) to complement one another in the work of the church. Thus, we are first not to think that we are doing our individual work in the different ministries and departments that are not at all connected and related to one another. There is of course the bigger picture of God's work in and through the church. Second, we are to realise that any of us is not supposed to try to do and accomplish every single thing in the church. Instead, we are to get as many of us active and involved in serving the Lord, delegating, giving, and opening up avenues and opportunities for them. Third, we need to "expect great things, attempt great things" (quote of William Carey). When we work together, we are able to do even greater work and achieve greater results than when we serve as individuals. This is known as the synergistic effect.

Even the Apostle Paul himself realised this in his ministry among the Christians in Corinth. He wrote of this in 1 Cor. 3:4-11. Oftentimes God's work is not completed and done in a matter of days, months or even years. It can be a long and oft arduous process that we may not even see the fruits of our labour in our lifetime. What then are the important attitudes that we must have in doing God's work?

First, we must constantly remind ourselves that we are not building our kingdom but God's kingdom. We are not merely the makers and owners of our destiny, but we are His servants whose focus and desire are to submit to doing His Will (1 Cor. 3:4-5 "For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal? Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers [servants] by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man?"). In this way, we as followers of Christ are called to labour together in the local church of Galilee where He has put us together as a body of Christ.

Second, there are the 3 stages of planting, watering, and growing in doing God's work. The Apostle Paul had started the work of planting and establishing the church at Corinth (v. 6a). Apollos had also laboured hard in following up to build up and increase the state of the Corinthian church (v. 6b). But, in the end, God is the One who uses and blesses the efforts of His servants to bring about growth (v. 6c). This does not mean that we should just put up our hands and not work. Instead, we should recognise that God can use our planting and watering to bring about the fruits in His Kingdom (verses 7 and 8 "So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase. Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour").

Third, we are to be confident and assured that we as a church are under God's gracious and careful cultivation (v. 9b – we are His husbandry [tilled or cultivated field]; v. 9c – we are His building). As such, we are to serve knowing that we have been given His grace and favour to serve Him and His people (our fellow sheep). Even our different gifts, talents and strengths are also given to us by our Heavenly Father (James 1:17 "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning"). At the same time, we are to ensure that all our efforts are Christ-focused (v. 11 "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ") so that it remains in the same process and not short-circuit it.

Let each of us therefore find our purpose in serving God especially in Galilee Church, and not let others do all the work. Charles Stanley put it in this manner, "As God's children, we are not to be observers; we're to participate actively in the Lord's work. Spectators sit and watch, but we are called to use our spiritual gifts and serve continually." God bless us and the work of our hands!
